

Funny Stories

1. Story Name- The Missing Tenth Man

Ten men go to the Ganges to take a dip in the holy river. While taking a dip, they hold each other's hands but somehow forget to hold their hands when coming out of the water. Once on the shore, the eldest man starts the count. He asks all of them to raise their hands, and the count stops at nine. All are confused, and each person takes a turn to take the count. They all count till 9. They frantically start looking for the missing tenth man. A cap seller watching this amusing scene gives each of them a cap to wear. He asks the eldest man to collect and count all the caps, including the one he is wearing. Lo and behold! There were 10 caps in total.

Lesson to be learned: Importance of counting and paying attention to details

“The Missing Tenth Man” story ends here.

2. Story Name- Five Rats and a Funny Top Hat

Samson, a big black fat cat, lay across a mat pretending to be asleep with one eye looking right at the hole in the wall where five rats lived. The rats wanted to get away from the cat but were scared to make a move. When a man who entered the house dropped his hat on the floor, the rats knew that they had a chance to get away from the cat. All of them hid under the hat and started moving towards the open door. The cat spotted the hat moving and started walking towards it. But as luck would have it, a sudden gust of wind tipped the hat over, and the rats fell into it. The wind blew the hat into the pond where it floated. Samson was angry because he couldn't swim. That's how the rats escaped from the wrath of the big black fat cat.

Lesson to be learned: Treat everyone with respect, not only when you need them

“Five Rats and a Funny Top Hat” story ends here.